Sunday School

During the month of October and November, we will be taking a look at the book by Reggie McNeal, The Present Future. "In this provocative book, author, consultant, and church leadership developer Reggie McNeal debunks old assumptions and provides an overall strategy to help church leaders move forward in an entirely different and much more effective way. In The Present Future, McNeal identifies the six most important realities that church leaders must address including: recapturing the spirit of Christianity and replacing "church growth" with a wider vision of kingdom growth; developing disciples instead of church members; fostering the rise of a new apostolic leadership; focusing on spiritual formation rather than church programs; and shifting from prediction and planning to preparation for the challenges of an uncertain world. McNeal contends that by changing the questions church leaders ask themselves about their congregations and their plans, they can frame the core issues and approach the future with new eyes, new purpose, and new ideas." This book will continue the conversation we started as part of the Surfing the Edge process and will help give us some more language to use when we are discussing the Missional Church.

Midway Commemorates 9/11

Story and photographs by Dick Yarmy—University of Kentucky School of Journalism & Telecommunications

"It just felt right," said Rev. Heather McColl of Midway Christian Church.

Sunday, nearly 200 Midway citizens gathered for the first annual Service of Peace and Hope. The event commemorated the toll of Sept. 11, 2001, was sponsored by eight local churches, and was initiated by McColl.

Seated in the Bradley Park pavilion, the worshipers were surrounded by a panorama typical of Woodford County and the Bluegrass. The view included fenced pastures, grazing horses and a steeple of Midway College.

Community members came in all ages, shapes and sizes, sporting fashions that announced membership in one of the many generations in attendance. The overall scene could be described as a collage of virtual snapshots, any one capable of inspiring a Norman Rockwell magazine cover.

There were seniors arriving with the help of walkers and golf carts; families struggling to carry toddlers; pre-schoolers clutching American flags; a father, son and grandfather attending together; (Photo: Alton, Joshua and A.D. Reed) and a city council member arriving in a pick-up truck carrying additional folding chairs for the overflow.

The audience was diverse. Yet, when members rose to "pass the peace," right, and began greeting neighbors, the scene looked more like a community than a collection of individuals.

The service was simple, ecumenical and moving. Ministers and lay people representing six churches took the podium to read scripture and share their thoughts.

A cascade of concise messages flowed from the pulpit.

Phrases like: "Father give us strength," from a reading by city council member Joy Arnold. From the Rev. Don Johnson: "Where there is unity there is strength." And, "Although we worship in different buildings we should worship as one." At times, the worshipers reacted to message lines with a simple "Amen."

Other messages talked of the history of 9/11 as a placeholder. "We felt a lot safer before then," said Bud Ratliff. "It was easy to think that peace and quiet was the same thing." Ratliff ended his thoughts with topical humor: "If the wolf and the lamb can lie down together, there may even be hope for the elephant and the donkey." (Photo: Bud with daughter Zoe)

Between each message the audience sang well-known songs like "Down by the Riverside," and "We Shall Overcome." The crowd's voices were reinforced by the Community Choir and backed by keyboardist Angela Eaton and guitarist Blake Jones, right.

After sharing communion, the crowd was invited to prepare "peace flags," using their imaginations to express their own personal feelings. The flags were attached to lines and displayed around the pavilion.

"It was a perfect place and a perfect setting," McColl said afterward. "They loved getting together as a community, and we've decided to make this an annual event."

Thank You for Supporting the American Diabetes Association "Step Out"

Thank you for joining the American Diabetes Association for a wonderful Step Out: Walk to Fight Diabetes on June 4th at the Keeneland Race Course. This amazing day saw more than 1500 walkers and volunteers show their support for the continuing mission of this organization. The Central Kentucky area has raised over $220,000 this year and we are still counting.

As you have heard me say before, every 20 seconds someone is diagnosed with Type 1 or Type 2 diabetes. In the time you read this note, another 3 families have probably had diabetes enter their lives. But thanks to American Diabetes Association and other organizations, those families don't have to face these diseases alone. Educating others, advocating for others and innovating for all continues to change lives for those in Central Kentucky and all around the country.

Our team, with the support of our biological and spiritual families, raised $4,465 this year. This makes our team ranked 9th overall in fundraising and 5th in the Friends and Family category. And the support from both our biological and spiritual families has been constant since our family was originally diagnosed. Together we have raised $75,000 over the past 9 years and we have always been a top 10 fund raising team.

But this is not about our team; it is about the difference families experience thanks to you. No longer do families hear "we don't know about diabetes". They now hear "this is how you manage it." And we work for that day that we hear "this is how you cure it". It is coming. It is not a pep talk. It is not a belief. Innovations in medical treatment grow exponentially at the University of Kentucky and other research sites. It will happen... thanks to your continued support.

Thank you. The Batts family.

Did you know you can recycle your toothbrush?

"Like you, I try to reduce, reuse and recycle. But in order to have good hygiene, we are supposed to switch to a new toothbrush regularly. A few months ago, I discovered the Preserve Toothbrush. The toothbrushes are not only made from yogurt cups, they come in a pouch which includes prepaid postage so that you can return your old toothbrush to be recycled. They also make razors as well as items for the kitchen. Buy one for yourself and one for a friend so that we can all brush our teeth while walking more gently on God's earth." - Carol Devine, Minister for Green Chalice

Community Dinner & Trunk or Treat

Monday, October 31st

On Monday, October 31st, Midway Christian will host our monthly FREE community dinner at 5:30 p.m. We are eating a little earlier this time so that following our festivities, there will still be plenty of time for kids to go trick or treating. Kids are asked to be at the church at 4:00 p.m. to help cook and prepare for the dinner.
